Ready to Serve

Social responsibility is a good reason to select UNICOR when contracting for a service provider, but not the only reason. UNICOR is a wholly owned government corporation that utilizes a federal inmate work force that can perform these services. Workers are expected to meet a higher quality standard than those set by the industry in comparable markets. When selecting a service provider, UNICOR is not just a good choice, but the right choice.

Today's Services Business Group offers a wide variety of quality services such as document conversion, e-Business support, call center operations, distribution services, and laundry operations, just to name a few.

UNICOR's goal is to be your first choice when seeking a service provider who can offer custom solutions to your unique situation. We can provide the labor, expertise, and the financial stability of a government organization and simplify the entire process. With a ready and able workforce at multiple locations throughout the USA, UNICOR can provide the manpower for almost any labor-intensive task.

UNICOR can provide many of the labor-intensive services that are moving offshore, without all the hassles and logistical nightmares of outsourcing in a foreign country. UNICOR continually investigates new opportunities to provide skilled labor to commercial firms that want a stable, productive workforce. To discuss possible service opportunities with UNICOR, contact us directly or through our website.

Document Conversion

UNICOR has over thirty-five years of experience supporting both military and civilian agencies and their contractors in data entry and document conversion. UNICOR operations have evolved over time, so that today UNICOR manages seven document conversion centers, which employ over 800 skilled workers. Additional centers will be opened and operational in the very near future. Current locations provide a wide variety of conversion services, including:

- Scanning (both standard and large format)
- OCR and complete OCR cleanup
- Image cleanup and enhancement
- Document indexing
- Tagging for PDF, HTML, SGML, and XML

UNICOR processes a diverse range of work: environmental impact statements, file folders for document management systems, nationwide invoice records for a centralized vehicle maintenance database, and hundreds of thousands of pages for incorporation into an agency's unified decision tracking system.

Currently, UNICOR focuses on:

- Technical manuals and technical drawings
- Patents for electronic publishing
- Conversions for document and records management systems
- Backfile conversion of legacy data

e-Business Support

Over the years, UNICOR's document conversion services have evolved to reflect changing times, current technology, and the needs of its customers. During the 1990s, with the growth of the Internet, UNICOR moved into HTML, SGML, and PDF. Now, with the emergence of XML, UNICOR has again stayed in step with the times, setting in place the resources and partnerships needed to meet our customers' continually changing and increasing requirements.

Not only has UNICOR kept pace with these newer tagging schemes, it is preparing to move into the broader arena of e-business support. UNICOR can meet the needs of the federal government and private industry with support in the areas of web- and enterprise-based catalog and content management. Partnered with skilled private sector resources with years of experience in knowledge management, UNICOR is a viable and cost-effective alternative to the offshore firms that to date have captured a vast majority of this work.

Call Center & Help Desk Support

UNICOR has over fifteen years of experience operating a customer service center at its facility in Lexington, Kentucky. UNICOR customers can place orders and determine the status of an order via toll-free number, e-mail, or web access. The customer service representatives handling the daily incoming phone calls are federal inmates. Based upon the success of this operation and a two-year telephone order entry project performed for GSA's western regional FSS offices, UNICOR is now offering call center support to federal agencies looking to outsource this function.

Call center operations are another area where the trend has been for commercial firms to outsource offshore. UNICOR can now offer these same cost-effective services to private industry in instances where the work has already or is about to go offshore.

This hands-on, "real world" experience for UNICOR's workers can only help ensure success for them upon return to their communities.
